

Graduate Mathematics Seminar

Life After College for Math Majors

Adam Brzezicki University of Utah, Health

Abstract: Graduating from college is an exciting experience for all students. It is also stressful as students transition from one stage in their academic and professional path into more serious endeavors. In this presentation, I share my experiences post college in the Insurance Industry and with getting my MBA. The goal of the presentation is to ease the stress to students associated with graduating and either finding a job or continuing one's education, and to provide them some direction and clarity if they want to follow a path similar to mine.
